

JURY SENDS KEITH UP FOR FOUR YEARS

Compromise Reached After Several Hours' Deliberation—New Trial To Be Asked

Tom Keith, of Lexington, was given four years in the penitentiary on a charge of confederating and conspiring with Lawrence Pierce and Monk Wilson to abduct and assault Peter W. Wells, on the night of last December 2nd.

After several hours of consultation the jury in the Madison circuit court brought in a verdict Tuesday afternoon. The verdict was said to have been in the nature of a compromise. Three or four of the jurymen were said to have favored acquittal of Keith on the ground that he alone of the three men confessed to the deed, and that without his confession nothing might ever have been known of the cause of the mysterious attack on Wells.

It is understood that motion and grounds for a new trial will be offered by Keith's attorneys Wednesday morning, and it is probable that an appeal will be taken to the Court of Appeals, in the event these motions are overruled.

Attorneys for Tom Keith scored heavily in his behalf during the final hours of the testimony in his trial Monday afternoon, when they put four witnesses on the stand who flatly contradicted Peter W. Wells' statement that he had told no one that Keith had tried to keep Pierce from killing him. These witnesses were Will Rhorer, Clarence Hall, Assistant Chief of Police Ernest Thompson, of Lexington, and ex-Sheriff P. S. Whitlock. All said that Wells had told them that there was one of the three men who kidnapped him who "was good" to him, or who had tried to prevent them from killing him.

In concluding his testimony, Keith declared that he had begged Pierce not to kill Wells. He said that Pierce called him a "chicken-hearted" and told him to get on up the road. Keith declared that he replied: "Well, maybe I am, but I can stand for that." Keith said that in the office of the Sheriff when he was brought over here after his arrest, Wells shook hands with him and said something about thanking him.

Will Rhorer, to whose story at the top of the hill on the bay side of the river Wells crawled after he was shot, testified he heard two shots. Clarence Hall was in the store with him at the time. In about 15 minutes a man came in, bloody and badly hurt. The man was Wells. Rhorer said he asked him if he knew who had shot him and he said he didn't. Wells said there were three men in a machine; they had come to his home beyond Richmond and kidnapped him and tried to kill him. They had tried to kill him for a diamond ring, Rhorer said Wells told him. Asked if they had got the ring, Rhorer said Wells said that he had left it at home. Rhorer testified that Wells told him that one of the men tried to keep the man with the pistol from killing him. He said this man told him he could get what he wanted without that. Rhorer said one of the men was good to him, that he had given him a handkerchief to wipe the blood from his face.

Clarence Hall, in the store when Wells came in, corroborated Rhorer's testimony. He said that Wells told him and Rhorer that one of the three men "begged off" for him. He said one gave him a handkerchief and was "kinder good to him all the way through."

After Wells had been recalled and had denied telling Chief Thompson anything along this line, Mr. Thompson was put on the stand and testified that Wells had told him that one of the three kidnapers had said to the others: "Don't do that; you can get by without that."

Fred Buchignani and Starling Johnson, of Lexington, to whose places Keith went after the return to Lexington on the night of Dec. 2d, were not allowed to tell the jury that Keith told them of the night's work. The defense had them make avowals to the court stenographer to go into the records.

Wells was again recalled and denied that he had told ex-Sheriff P. S. Whitlock that he "didn't believe the fleshy man wanted to kill him." Then Mr. Whitlock was put on the stand and swore that Wells had told him that he "didn't believe one of them wanted to kill him." He said Wells said that the others then "called him something and he went on up the road."

This closed the main testimony for the defense. A number of men testified to Keith's good reputation. Several said they knew his reputation was good "when he was sober." Among them were Dick McCormack, former policeman of Lexington; Pete Jenkins, building inspector of Lexington. The prosecution admitted affidavit that a number of other witnesses who did not answer would have testified to Keith's good reputation had they been present. They were Clarence Hicks, Boyd Sandlin, Everett Perry, Tom O'Day, Representative James Park, of Madison county, Representative Rufus Lyle, of Jessamine county, and ex-Representative W. F. Blair, of Fayette county.

Two arguments were made by counsel before the jury before adjournment for the day. Attorney George Wyckoff, of Winchester, spoke for the defense and Attorney A. R. Burnham for the prosecution. Final arguments were made Tuesday morning by Attorney R. C. Oldham for the defense and Commonwealth's Attorney W. J. Baxter for the prosecution.

HASELDEN MAY BE GILBERT'S OPPONENT

The political correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer says it is tipped that Joseph Haselden, Garrard county, will be the republican candidate for Congress from the Eighth District to battle Judge Ralph Gilbert this fall. Judge Gilbert in 1921 defeated King Swope, republican, by a narrow margin and last fall Haselden defeated Joseph Robinson for U. S. Senate from the 18th district, being the first republican Senator from that region in a quarter of a century. As a reward he will probably be nominated for Congress.

THOUSANDS CHEER ROYAL WEDDING

(By Associated Press)
London, Feb. 28.—Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary, was married today to Viscount Lascelles with all the pomp and dignity befitting a royal wedding.

The ceremony was said in Westminster Abbey in the presence of 2,500 guests and while chimes rang out the happy message, vast crowds tumultuously cheered.

Mary rode with her father, King George, from the palace to the Abbey in a gilded coach with plate glass doors and surmounted by a gilded crown. The crowds on the curb were held back by thousands of troops and the policemen, gave storms of cheer. She was truly a princess in a fairy-like gown, combining a silver sheen of down of tulle, a sparkle of beads with colorings of satin and old lace, which contrasted with a wonderful fount and a half yard train of silk embroidered and marked with crystals.

She walked up the Abbey aisle on the arm of her father. She wore a pearl necklace and a triple diadem of twisted silver and orange blossoms.

After signing the register, the bride and groom made a triumphal return through tumultuous throngs to Buckingham palace where the wedding breakfast was served. The couple left this afternoon for Shropshire on a royal train to spend the honeymoon.

ENGLAND WITHDRAWS EGYPT PROTECTORATE

(By Associated Press)
London, Feb. 28.—Egypt George announced today that the British protectorate over Egypt has terminated.

Egypt, with its population of 10,000,000 Fellahs, Copts, and approximately 100,000 foreigners, is nominally a part of the Turkish Empire, but virtually has constituted a dependency of England. Its government is an hereditary monarchy whose head, from 1822 to 1914, was the Khedive Abbas Hilmi.

The tragic, pro-German and pro-Turkish attitude of Abbas Hilmi early in the war led to his deposition and he was succeeded by his nephew, the former Prince Ahmed Fud, at one time president of the University of Egypt. He was invested with the title of Sultan Hussein Kemal.

Several factions exist in Egypt, all of them committed to independence of greater freedom from British rule.

The present disturbed condition followed the occupation by an Egyptian delegation in 1919, and the British government's refusal to negotiate for a termination of the protectorate which has continued since 1914 and for new measures of administrative reformation under British control.

British interest in Egypt arose when the Suez Canal, made by the empire's highway to India and the rich region of the East, really dates from 1848 when the engineer from Alexandria to Cairo was started. The country was invaded by Napoleon in 1798 and the French were expelled in 1801 but later for many years they occupied a predominant position in the affairs of the country. In 1882, when French influence was at its height, Ferdinand de Lesseps was granted a concession for the construction of the Suez Canal, which was completed in 1869. Meanwhile the British had established a telegraph company and the Bank of Egypt. Prime Minister Disraeli, about this time strengthened the position of the British by purchasing from the profligate Khedive Ismail $20,000,000 worth of Suez shares.

Ismail, after having lost thousands of lives and wasted vast sums in conflict with Abyssinia and in extending his dominion in the Sudan, was deposed in 1879, and his son, Tewfik Pasha, was appointed his successor. British control of the canal continued until 1883 when the French withdrew by agreement with England to devote their attention to Morocco.

The permanent military occupation of Egypt by the British was followed in 1881 by the revolt of the Mahdists or religious fanatics, armed followers of a supposed Mohammedan messiah, General Charles George ("Chibres") Gordon, who was sent by the British government to the Sudan to assist the khedive in withdrawing the garrisons of the country which could hold out no longer against the Mahdists, was besieged for months at Khartoum and killed in the storming of the city on January 26, 1885. Subsequently, the revolt was put down. General Kitchener opened the road to Khartoum and Egyptian sway in that region was established by the British army in 1898. In the work of developing Egypt along modern lines, Gladstone, "The Great Commoner" of England, had no small part.

SAPIRO TO ORGANIZE CANADIAN FARMERS

Success With Fruit, Tobacco and Cotton Growers Attracts Attention—More Poolers

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—Aaron Sapiro, general counsel for the Barley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association, who arrived in Lexington Monday from the southwest, has accepted an invitation of the government of the province of Ontario, Canada, to come to Ontario, Canada, and assist in the organization of the growers of soft fruits, tobacco, grain and dairy products in the province.

The attention of the Canadian officials was attracted by the success of the brilliant Californian in organizing the tobacco growers of Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, the cotton growers of the south and anthracite and the prune, raisin and orange growers of California.

Mr. Sapiro and the Arkansas cotton growers have gone over the top with their organization, the sixth such organization in the south to form cooperative marketing societies. The tobacco growers of the United States, including the Kentucky Growers' Association, have 67,000 members, about 10,000 more than the Banks Association and more are coming in.

Members of the Central District Marketing Cooperation are the officers of the District of Washington, Robert M. Barker in Fayetteville, Va.; No. 1 at Lexington, Kentucky, and papers were signed yesterday over the contracts under which the Barley Tobacco Growers' Association will possess a share of the production of the Central District to the marketing cooperative. This action is to be taken this week in the other seven cooperative districts of the United States.

Contract made by the Eastern district and the Ohio District will meet at Morehead, Wednesday. Washington county and the Central district will meet at Lexington Thursday, those of the Western district at Shelbyville Friday and those of the Northern and Indiana districts at Carrollton on Sunday. District Barker will attend all the meetings at which the members of the same home provinces will sign leases with the marketing cooperative under which the properties will be operated by the subscribers and the deal in the properties, which will be about June 15 under the original contract with the Barley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association.

Tim H. Caldwell, of Bourbon, was in Lexington Monday and reported an average advance on his entire production in Bourbon of 53,121 pounds of $10.18. For 19,400 pounds of it he received an advance of $1,592 a hundred. Mr. Caldwell said that two of his tenants produced more money as advance upon their share of the crops than they had been paid for their entire crop last year.

Chief of the Field Service Division Joseph Passomont report that receipt of about fifty contract bonds, but they had not been tabulated last night and average was not given out. Col. Passomont said, however, that contracts are coming in every day. One of the best known of recent farmers is Hon. E. H. Brown, Jr., of Louisville, former speaker of Kentucky House of Representatives and former member of the Board of Prison Commissioners, who owns a farm in Nelson county and who signed up 22,000 pounds to the Association.

No Sympathy For

Movie Censorship Bill

Senator Brock's bill to restrict the movies is finding little favor in Kentucky. In the first place practically every film that comes to Kentucky passes through the Ohio Board, and then Brock's bill provides conditions that are all out of reason. Why should the Kentucky Educational Association be empowered to name a member of the Board of Censorship? This gives to three people an undreamt-of power in should the Federation of Women's Clubs have the privilege of naming a member and the Daughters of the Revolution be excluded? In the legislature does this bill, the governor should veto it. So far as we have been able to see, no reputable newspaper in the state has endorsed it. David Wark Griffith, the dean of moving picture directors of this or any other country, said some very truthful things about the question in a letter to the members of the legislature.

"Censorship is an institution of autocracy," the letter says. "Censorship was first begun in Germany then it was used in Russia. There are laws on our books now that will punish any exhibitor of salacious or immoral films."

Speaking of the bill before the legislature he said: "I hear that there is not even an appeal to the courts in this bill. This is a landmark of things in a free government. This gives to three people an undreamt-of power in America. Where is our government going when it brings things to this pass? Even the worst criminal is given the right to an appeal to the courts.

"Have we not had enough of trying to make people good by law? Shall the great state of Kentucky add to that movement of restriction that is already so much on foot in our country? Do we not see the danger ahead of our restrictions until we shall have an autocratic form of government, until we make a condition to arise so that the need shall come and in the need America will furnish the man who shall again say as did Patrick Henry in days of old, 'Give us liberty or give us death.'"

Then, too, the Louisville Post, which usually takes the "reform" side on every public question, objects to this censorship measure. The Post says:

Senator Brock's bill to create a Board of Censorship for Motion Picture Films in Kentucky is a bad bill in a number of ways, and the legislature will make a serious mistake if they adopt it.

In the first place, authority of this kind, if given at all, should be retained by the State officers. The bill proposes the Federation of Women's Clubs and the Kentucky Educational Association "recommend" names to the Governor for appointment on the Board of Censors. But these organizations—excellent as they are—are purely volunteer bodies. They are not representative in that the people do not vote in selecting them. This suggestion alone condemns the bill.

Other features of the bill are radical and unwise. Proposals such as this do much harm. A certain amount of regulation must be done. The Evening Post is of those who feel that the state acted wisely in regulating the liquor traffic out of existence. And we stand with those who would repeal the law granting the railroad track association a special privilege to conduct public gaming on their premises. But if the rule of reason is not followed all regulations will fail. This act of censorship must not pass.

An Irishman went into a restaurant on Friday and asked, "Have you any stewed whale?" "No," said the waiter. "Then you can bring me beef-steak," said Mike. "Lord knows," tried to get fish."

JOHNSON STIRRING 'EM UP IN MOUNTAINS

The Louisville Times had a dispatch from London about the work of Circuit Judge Hiram Johnson, who is well known here. It said:

London, Feb. 27.—Divine assistance in the administration of justice is besought by Judge Hiram Johnson, reform jurist in this judicial district, whose court is opened with prayer and the singing of hymns. This musical procedure evidences the zealousness with which Judge Johnson has set out to rid Laurel Clay and Jackson counties, center of many noted feuds, of lawlessness.

He was swept into office by a popular uprising against conditions existing in the district and is strongly supported in his reform endeavors by public sentiment. In the courtroom in which he sits one almost daily finds groups of church workers and others interested in public service.

These often include a number of women, some of whom will bring along their embroidery or fancy needlework. Rev. E. Pallost, one of Judge Johnson's close friends and chief supporters, is a daily visitor in the courtroom.

The most effective method used by the Judge in overcoming vice is the imposition of peace bonds. He does this lavishly. Nearly all offenders brought before him are placed under bond to keep the peace.

In open court, when he first took office, he called the public's attention to the law, which permitted him to require peace bond.

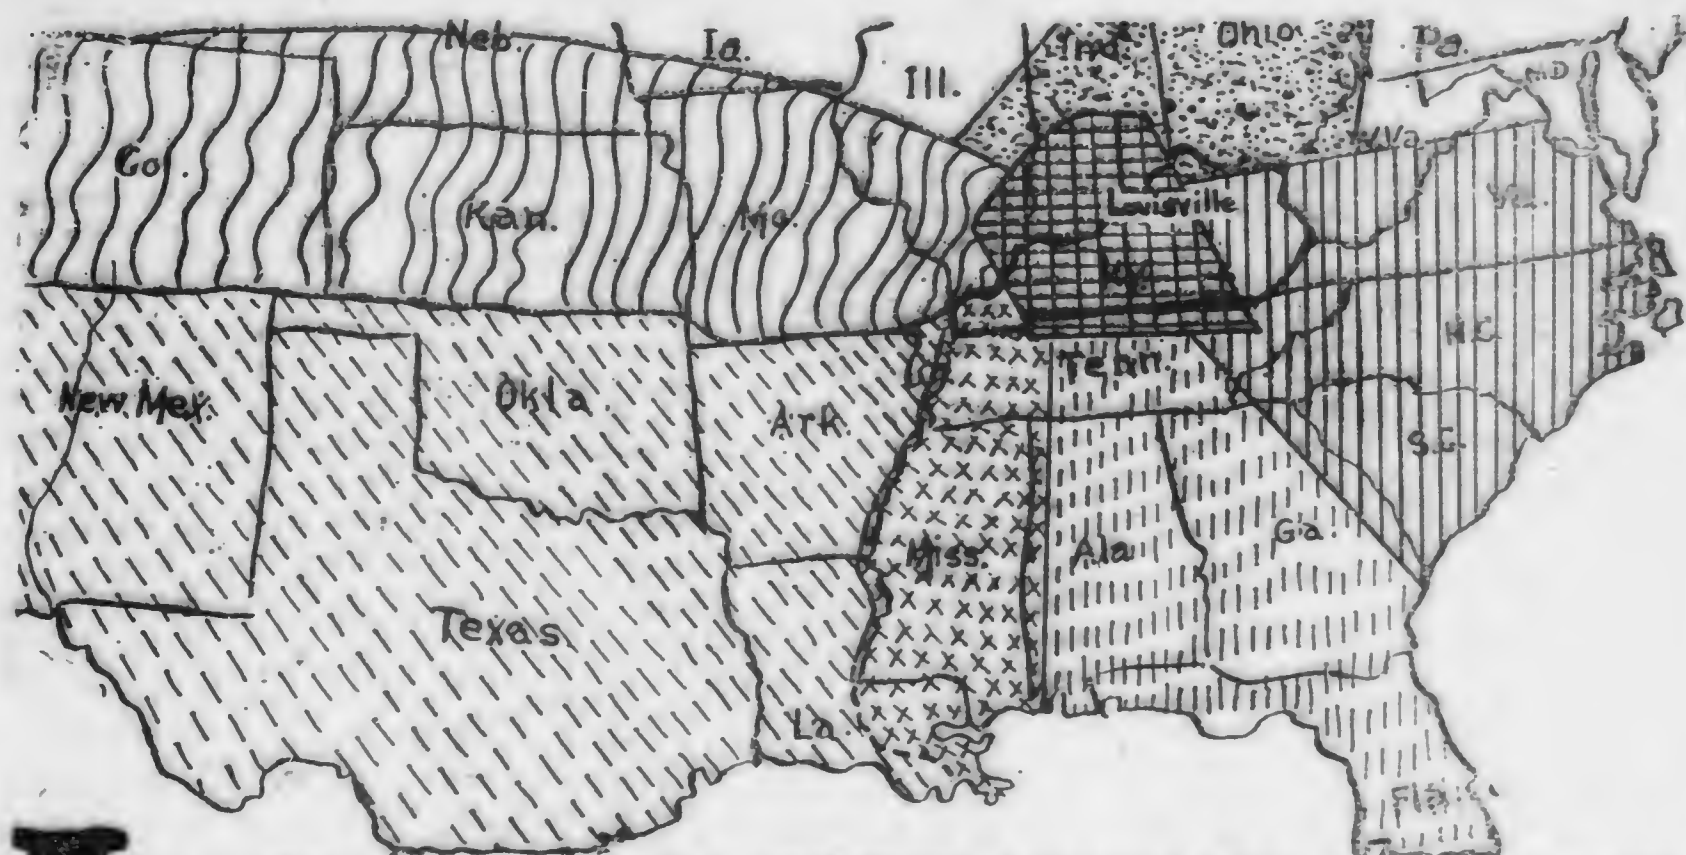

He said that if the statute on this subject were not considered broad enough for anyone he would invoke the old common law making Circuit Judges conservators of the public peace, which he said, has never been abrogated or changed by Kentucky statutory enactment.

Judge Johnson inflicts severe penalties in certain cases but in others instead of sternness he resorts to an appeal to the better nature of the culprit brought before him. Judge Johnson is held in great respect by the constituency in general and in fear by evildoers.

REAL ESTATE SALES IN THE BLUE GRASS

Real estate appears to be "picking up" right along in the Kentucky if reports from blue grass counties are a criterion. Over in Shelby, a lot of good sales are being reported. The News had these in its last issue: John A. Lee sold his farm of 115 acres and improvements on the State Pike, west of Shelbyville, at Gordon Station, to E. B. Stinson, of Louisville, at $23,000. Jesse G. Maddox has purchased the one-fourth interest of W. C. Hanna in the J. H. Maddox farm of 234 acres, 6 miles north Shelbyville on the Eminence pike, at $135 an acre. Mr. Maddox already owned the remaining three-fourths. At the auction sale of the 300 acre farm belonging to Riner, Hanna and Fishback, 8 miles south of Shelbyville on the Eminence pike, known as part of the W. H. Currier land W. C. Hanna and two Fishback were the purchasers at $125.70 an acre. The purchaser divided the property. Master Commissioner Coas. F. Beard sold under order of the Shelby circuit court, in the case of C. T. Mason vs. Clarence W. Stallard, etc., a farm of 134 acres, near Finchville, to C. T. Mason, of Simpsonville, for $11,200. The Downs-Moore Realty Company sold at auction the M. R. Probert farm of 120 acres and improvements on Reedbridge, to C. O. Rogers for $72 an acre. In Marion county the Lebanon Enterprise reports these sales: J. Lee Yates bought of C. F. Sweet a farm known as the W. B. Hughes farm, near Riversville containing 135 acres. The purchase was $6,000. Mr. Yates also acquired 75 acres off of Sweet farm for $4,000. George W. Lake and T. G. Harrison bought the old home place of the late Mrs. Tigner Lake containing 142 1/2 acres, near Riversville, for $10,000.

Fatal Gun In Suit Case

HARLAN'S 'BAD BOY' TO REFORM SCHOOL

Harlan, Ky., Feb. 28.—The most original boy in Harlan county is to be sent to the State School of Reform at Lexington under a 10-year sentence. He is Calvin Helton, 11 years old. He was reported to officials by his father, Henry Helton, a miner. According to the evidence upon which he was convicted, he broke into a local store two weeks ago thru a window, dressed himself in new underwear, shoes, suit and cap. Departing, he left his worn clothes on the floor. Firing of the selection he made made in the fortnight, he again broke into the same store, unfitted himself from head to foot in new things and again left his clothes where they fell.

When J. R. Cox, policeman, told him he was under arrest a few hours later, he put up such resistance that the officer threw him across his shoulder and started for the court house. The lad reached down and seized Cole's automatic .45, but the lock was set and he could not use it. He next grabbed the policeman's .38 revolver, but Cole held the hammer down with his thumb and carried the wriggling youngster before Judge Howard.

Dollars and Cents

Counting it only in dollars and cents, how much did that last cold cost you? A man may not always stop work when he has a cold, but perhaps it would be better if he did. It takes about ten days to get completely rid of a cold under the usual treatment. That time can be much shortened by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and proper care of yourself, in fact, a bottle of this remedy in the house is a mighty good investment during the winter and spring months.

MORE YOUNGSTERS GO TO BIG LEAGUES

This part of Kentucky, is sending a lot of its young baseball players to the larger leagues this season. Earl Combs, of Richmond, soon goes to join the Louisville American Association team. Up at Lynch, Harlan county, Vasco R. Barton, who was pitcher and manager of the independent team there last season, has gone to report to the Cleveland American League team at its training camp at Dallas, Texas. Walter Van Winkle, of Berea, who starred with Winchester last year, has signed with the Portsmouth team of the Virginia league. He is considered a star shortstop.

The Blue Grass league seems to be making headway, even if Richmond has enough "hustling" fans to get behind and put over a team here in the league. The Paris News had this of the latest steps being taken to organize the league:

A committee composed of Jesse Morton, of Lexington, John Linehan, of Cynthiana, and B. B. Goodman, of Paris, representing the organizers of the proposed new Blue Grass League, met in this city Monday night and decided on Tuesday night, February 28, as the date on which a meeting of the shareholders of the various clubs will be held in this city. The meeting will be held for the purpose of taking a final vote on the constitution and by-laws, a draft of which will be presented by the committee at the meeting.

Each member of the committee submitted written drafts of conditions under which the organization should be formed and conducted. It is understood that these drafts will differ to some extent, perhaps seriously enough to affect the organization of the league unless the views of the different committeemen can be reconciled.

BURLEY GROWERS ENDORSE COUNCIL

Tobacco Men, Through Chief of Field Service, Approve New Advisory Organization

Lexington, Feb. 27.—The Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association in a statement given out by Col. Joseph Passonneau, chief of the Field Service Division, endorses and recommends the newly formed Agricultural Council of Kentucky to any association of farmers who may be considering the formation of marketing associations of any kind. Col. Passonneau points to the fact that the council will serve farmers who ask its help without pay and that Judge R. W. Bingham, who successfully led the movement to organize the Burley tobacco growers, is the chairman.

Col. Passonneau, speaking for the burley cooperative, urges all farmers who may be considering forming cooperative marketing movements to seek first the advice and assistance of the Agricultural Council as to the steps to be taken to organize the right kind of association to handle the particular product it may be desired to market.

The statement of Col. Passonneau follows:

"Kentuckians who wish to see agriculture establish itself as not only the most important but the most successful industry in the state, should be interested in the newly formed Agricultural Council of Kentucky, whose purpose it is to assist the farmers in forming correct marketing associations for the sale of those agricultural products which should lend themselves to cooperative marketing.

"Agriculture is the basis of all industry. Unless the farmer is successful business generally cannot prosper, but successful agriculture always reflects prosperity into every other business activity.

"The Council, if given an opportunity, will fill a great need. It offers its service to all Kentuckians who are planning on a cooperative movement of any kind. It will make a study of any agricultural product and advise the growers of that product regarding the feasibility of marketing the product cooperatively as well as instruct them as to the type of organization that should best fit the particular product to be marketed.

"The council serves without pay. Judge Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Courier-Journal and Times at Louisville, and the man who was primarily responsible for the successful organization of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association, is chairman of the Council. "The Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association knows Judge Bingham. We know he is interested first of all in the success of the farmers of Kentucky. He not only lent his influence, but gave of his means to make the Burley Association a success. He was the prime factor that made possible the financing of the organization after it was formed.

"With Judge Bingham as the chairman of the Agricultural Council, we know that the services of that Council will always be genuine. We recommend, therefore, that all Kentuckians who are interested in starting a cooperative movement of any kind, seek the advice and assistance of the Council as the first move in the formation of a cooperative."

Bigger R. R. Yards At Irvine

Ravenna, Feb. 28—The L. & N. Railroad Company is to enlarge the yards at this place and they will extend to Irvine, with three or four more tracks, giving two miles of storage tracks. Plans have been submitted for new office buildings and this will be the largest terminal of this division.

The present yards, consisting of about twelve tracks, are too small for the business coming to Ravenna. New homes are going up daily and in 5 years Ravenna has grown to a population of 3,000 people.

INDIGESTION

Busy Public Official Says Theodor's Black-Draught Helps Him Keep Physically Fit.

Chey City, Ky.—"I have been in business here for twenty-one years; am also crooner, riding the Kentucky hills and hollows in all kinds of weather and under all kinds of conditions," says Mr. Sam T. Carr, of this place. "To be able to do so, I must keep physically fit, and Theodor's Black-Draught is my standby."

"These trips used to give me headaches, and that, I found, came from indigestion, and from constipation. I was convinced that Black-Draught was good, so now I use it, and it gives me perfect satisfaction. It acts on the liver, relieves indigestion, and certainly is splendid. I am never without it."

"When you have a feeling of discomfort after meals, causing a bloating sensation, headache, bad breath, and similar common symptoms, try taking a pinch of Black-Draught after meals—a pinch of the dry powder, washed down with a swallow of water. This has been found to assist the stomach and liver to carry on their normal work, and helps prevent, or relieve, constipation."

Your druggist can supply you with this well-known, purely-vegetable liver medicine. Insist upon Theodor's, the original and only genuine Black-Draught liver medicine. NC-137a

Flames Destroy Fayette Landmark

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—One of the landmarks of Fayette County, the old Cromwell home, on the Georgetown pike, about 5 miles from here, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin last Saturday night. The dwelling was considered a show place when built about 100 years ago. Damage of $10,000 was caused by the fire. W. T. Swango is the present owner.

Periodic Bilious Attacks

Persons subject to periodic bilious attacks will observe that their appetite fails them just before an attack. That is, they do not crave food, but eat because it is meal time. If they will eat only a light meal and no meat, then take two of Chamberlain's Tablets, the attack may be avoided. feb.

SPENCE HAS SOYBEAN CAMPAIGN THIS WEEK

College of Agriculture Expert Is With Him In Madison Two Days On Work

Lexington, Feb. 28.—Livestock, poultry, soil, orchard and garden problems will receive special attention from many Kentucky farmers during the coming week, according to a schedule of community extension work announced today at the College of Agriculture.

In Madison county a campaign will be started to increase the acreage of clovers and soybeans grown in that district of the state. Ralph Kenney, crop specialist of the College, and county agent, R. F. Spence will start the work in the Kingston community.

Mr. Spence sends the Daily Register the following: Comparison of Cowpeas

And Soybeans
Soybeans and cowpeas are similar in respect to the place they may fill in the cropping system. It has been stated that soybeans are superior to cowpeas under most conditions in this state and a comparison of the two crops will indicate reasons for such a statement. It is not desired to give the impression, however, that soybeans should always be grown in preference to cowpeas. In fact there are certain conditions and certain purposes for which the latter are much better than soybeans, as will be pointed out. In discussing the relative advantages and disadvantages of these two crops, the question of soil adaptation and climate influence upon yield are also discussed quite fully and need not be treated separately.

On fairly good land—land that will make 35 bushels or more of corn per acre—soybeans are decidedly superior to cowpeas. If grown as a full season crop, their upright habit of growth makes them easier to mow when grown for hay and they are more easily cured than cowpeas. They yield as much hay as cowpeas under the same soil conditions or more and the hay is at least equal in value to cowpea hay.

On land inclined to be wet and cold, soybeans give decidedly better results than cowpeas because, unlike the latter, they are not easily injured by excessive moisture. Both soybeans and cowpeas are quite tolerant of soil acidity and will thrive on soils too acid for red clover.

Soybeans are not seriously injured at any stage of growth by cold, damp weather, while cowpeas are often injured to such an extent that the crop is practically a failure. Soybeans are more drought resistant than cowpeas.

Cowpeas are very tender and are killed by even a light frost at any stage of growth. Soybeans will stand considerable frost without injury, although killed by heavy frosts.

Soybeans produce much heavier yields of seed than cowpeas, hence they are better for hogging down or for any purpose where seed production is the chief object. Soybeans ripen all the seed at the same time, making harvesting a relatively easy task, comparable to harvesting wheat or oats. Cowpeas continue to grow and produce green pods until checked by drought or frost. To get sound seed, the pods must be picked as they ripen, the common practice in the cotton belt, or the vines may be cut as soon as a fair crop has ripened, and when dry, threshed. The yield of seed obtained by the latter method is small, while picking by hand is expensive. The straw makes excellent hay, however, much better than soybean straw.

Soybeans can be threshed with an ordinary grain separator by making a few adjustments, but cowpeas crack so easily that a special pea thresher is necessary to thresh the crop.

As a catch crop for planting in corn or late in the season after any other crop, cowpeas are decidedly more valuable than soybeans. The energy of the latter is expended in producing seed and the growth is likely to be small. This is not true of cowpeas to an equal extent.

For seed broadcast on weed land cowpeas are preferable to soybeans because they smother weeds much better. On fairly clean land, however, soybeans will give as good results sown broadcast or drilled solid as cow-

Chronic Constipation
There are people who never have a movement of the bowels without it is produced by a cathartic. Most of them have brought that condition on themselves by the use of mineral waters and strong cathartics that take too much water out of the system and aggravate the disease they are meant to relieve. A mild laxative such as Chamberlain's Tablets, which is a gentle movement of the bowels, that you hardly realize has been produced by a medicine, and their use is not so likely to be followed by constipation. feb.

Doctor 82 Finds Mothers Prefer His Formula to New-Fangled Salts And Coal Tar Remedies for Babies

Judgment of 892 vindicated by world's approval of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a simple, effective compound for constipation—So safe thousands give to babies in arms—Now has largest sale in the world.

WHEN a man in the 82nd year of life, as I am, there are certain things he has learned that a time can teach him. Thesis of treating sickness had changed since I left Medical College in 1874, nor since I had on the market the laxative prescription I had used in practice, known to druggists and the public since 192, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

From a recent portrait of Dr. W. B. CALDWELL, Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Born Hockleyville, Mo., 1840

Then the trend of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, stomachache and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of the vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still basis of my Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of Egyptian Seno and other mild laxative herbs and pepsin.

Recently my medicines have been light out for constipation. I contain calomel, which mercury, salts of various minerals, and coal tar. There are all drastic purges, many of them dangerous, and the medical profession is warning the public against them. Certain coal tar products will depress the heart; certain salts give rise to intestinal poisoning, impaction and rupture of the intestines. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simplest remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with pills and powders and strong drugs, even if disguised in candy? My remedy, too, costs less than most others, only about a cent a dose. A bottle such as you can find in any drug store, will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby in arms because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The formula of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is on the cover of every bottle, and the ingredients have the endorsement of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia.

In remembrance of my 82nd birthday I have set aside the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars to be given away in half-ounce bottles of my Syrup Pepsin. Only one Free Trial bottle to a family. All are constipated now and then, and here is an opportunity for you and others to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE. Ask for your free bottle today, simply sending name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 514 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Do not postpone this.
